Hints and Helps

FOR THOSE WHO USE THE OFFICIAL CATHOLIC DIRECTORY

Each year the editors of The Official Catholic Directory seek added ways of serving their subscribers. Although the book may never answer every question, this is the conscientious goal; its format, arrangement and editorial features are directed toward the convenience and needs of the public. Nor does this policy stop with the editorial content. The advertisers are accepted with the user of the Directory in mind. It is policy that advertisers are selected rather than solicited. Each advertiser is screened for business integrity and for the usefulness of the product and/or service offered to the potential customer.

Official Catholic Directory Glossary

Advocate

An ecclesiastical advocate is someone approved by Church authority to safeguard the rights of a party in a canonical process by arguments regarding the law and the facts of the case. [Cf. c. 1481 and CLSA Comm., p. 967]

Apostolate

Apostolate is the ministry or work of an apostle, that is, the mission of Christ and participation in it: by charism, by marriage, by vocation, and special gifts, by general supplementary mandate of the hierarchy and by particular mandate, and by close imitation of Christ.

Chancellor

The office of the chancellor (or the Chancery) evolved from the practice in the early Church of appointing an official to sign and preserve the letters of the Bishop. The 1983 Code of Canon Law lists as the first function of the Chancellor the gathering, arranging and safeguarding of the acts of the diocesan curia. Hence, the office is closely related to that of Archivist. Dispensations and other official documents also originate from the Chancery. The canons allow for local adaptation so that the Chancellor in many dioceses continues to exercise ordinary jurisdiction as delegated by the Diocesan Bishop. He may be assisted by a separate official, the Vice-Chancellor.

College of Cardinals

There are three ranks in the college of Cardinals, corresponding to the historical origins of cardinals in the Roman Catholic Church. All Cardinals are bishops but their rank within the college of Cardinals is characterized by one of the hierarchical ranks of bishop, presbyter, or deacon. [Cf. c. 350; CLSA Comm., pp. 288-289]

1) Cardinal Bishops:

There are two types of Cardinal Bishops: 1) those who are appointed by the Pope to one of the six suburban dioceses of Rome and 2) Oriental Patriarchs who have been assigned to the college of Cardinals.

2) Cardinal Priests

Cardinals of presbyteral rank are assigned one of the "titles" in Rome, the "titular Churches" over which they have no pastoral authority. They are bishops whose dioceses are outside of Rome.

3) Cardinal Deacons

Cardinals of diaconal rank are Titular Bishops assigned to one of the "diaconia" or regional divisions of Rome that used to be staffed by deacons in the early middle ages. Cardinal deacons are officials of the Roman Curia.

Confraternity of Christian Doctrine [CCD]

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (CCD) is the Church's official association of the faithful devoted to the work of religious education from early childhood through adult life.

Cursillo

The cursillo de cristianidad or "little course in Christianity" is a three-day period of spiritual renewal or of spiritual awakening that attempts to convey a new sense of the dynamic and personalistic aspects of the Christian faith leading to engaging in individual and organized apostolic activity.

Deacons

The diaconate is said to be the first or lowest order or grade of the clerical state. Its origins are in early apostolic times. Any man who is to be ordained to the ministerial priesthood must first be ordained a deacon and exercise the order as a transitional deacon. Deacons serve the People of God in the ministry of liturgy, of the Word, and of charity.

In 1967, Pope Paul VI re-instituted the Permanent Diaconate. Although men ordained as permanent deacons are sometimes referred to as "married deacons," the permanent diaconate is open to both married and unmarried men, with the understanding that after ordination, they may not marry even after the death of a spouse. Under the authority of the diocesan bishop, they perform the same functions as the transitional deacons while, at the same time, retaining their roles in society as family and business men.

Defender of the Bond

A member of a Diocesan Tribunal, either a cleric or a lay person, holding a graduate degree in canon law, who is appointed by the diocesan bishop for cases concerning the nullity of sacred ordination or the nullity or dissolution of the marriage bond.

Diocesan Bishop

By divine institution, a bishop is a successor of the apostles and by reason of episcopal consecration shares in the triple apostolic function of teacher of doctrine, priest of sacred worship, and minister of church government.

The bishop to whom a particular or local Church is entrusted is called a diocesan bishop or a residential bishop. All other bishops receive titular sees over which they exercise no authority.

When the pastoral needs of a diocese warrant, one or more auxiliary bishops may be appointed to assist the diocesan bishop in governing his diocese. An auxiliary bishop does not have the right of succession within his diocese.

In special circumstances, such as age or ill health on the part of the diocesan bishop, the Holy See may appoint a coadjutor bishop. The 1983 Code of Canon Law has determined that all coadjutor bishops have the right of succession in the diocese of their appointment from the time the see becomes vacant.

Diocesan Curia

The personnel and offices assisting a diocesan bishop in directing the pastoral activity, administration, and the exercise of judicial power of his diocese as a juridic person. The Curia includes among its officers laity and religious as well as clergy.

Diocese

A portion of the people of God entrusted to a bishop with the cooperation of the presbyterate and constituting what is called a "particular" or "local" church. A diocese is usually limited to a definite territory so that it comprises all the faithful who inhabit that territory. [cf. cc. 369 and 372, #1]. In the Eastern Catholic Churches, the word eparchy is used to denote a diocese (or archeparchy for an archdiocese).

Ecclesiastical Province

The basic territorial groupings of particular churches or dioceses. A province is composed of neighboring dioceses, one of which is designated as an Archdiocese led by an Archbishop or Metropolitan, who has a special role within that territory. A number of provinces within a country, such as there are in the United States, can be organized into ecclesiastical regions. In the United States, there are 31 provinces organized into 13 regions.

Episcopal Vicar

The appointment of a priest as an episcopal vicar is an option given to a diocesan bishop when a special need is demonstrated for governing a specific territory within the diocese, a group of persons, or a type of activity within the diocese.

Judicial Vicar

By Church law, the diocesan bishop is the judge of all cases in the diocesan tribunal of first instance. He must appoint a priest with ordinary power to judge cases not reserved to the Bishop himself. This priest must be at least thirty years of age and have a graduate degree in canon law. He is called the Judicial Vicar and is sometimes referred to as the chief judge or "Officialis." He may be given another priest as an assistant with the title of Adjutant Judicial Vicar.

Mission

A mission or quasi-parish is one which has not been established as a parish because it lacks one or more qualifications, e.g., resident pastor; necessary financial resources; territorial boundaries or a natural grouping by way of rite, nationality, or language.

Missions are attached to some parishes under the care of their pastors.

Moderator of the Curia

An office to which the diocesan bishop is free to appoint a bishop or priest who is to be concerned primarily with administrative matters and with supervising those working in the curia.

Newman Apostolate

The work of the Church on the campuses of secular universities and colleges, now commonly referred to as "campus ministry."

Papal Representatives

There are three types of Legates (or Representatives) of the Roman Pontiff: those who represent the Pope to particular Churches; those who represent him to particular churches and to civil governments; and those who represent him in international organizations or at various conferences and meetings. [Cf. c. 363; CLSA Comm., p. 302]

1) Apostolic Pro-Nuncio

In the United States, the papal representative is sent by the Holy Father to both the local church and to the government. His title is Apostolic Pro-Nuncio. Although he holds the title of ambassador, in U.S. law he is not accorded the special privilege of being the Dean of the diplomatic corps; hence, his title is not "Nuncio" but "Pro-Nuncio."

2) Permanent Observer to the United Nations

The Apostolic See maintains permanent legates below the ambassadorial level to several world organizations. Since the Papal Legate does not enjoy the right to vote within the organization, his title at the United Nations is that of Observer.

Parish

A specific community of the Christian faithful established on a stable basis within a diocese. The pastoral care of those within the confines of a parish (territorial or personal) is entrusted to a pastor who exercises his office under the authority of the Diocesan Bishop.

Pastoral Council

This is an optional (although strongly recommended) consultative body that has as its primary concern the pastoral activity within the diocese. Its members include laity, religious, and clergy. The Pastoral Council is to study practical situations, difficulties and problems, and make concrete recommendations and proposals to the Diocesan Bishop.

Patriarch

The Pope is the traditional "Patriarch of the West." All other bishops within the Western Church are subject to him, so that even those with the honorary title of "Patriarch" have it in name only. Similarly, patriarchs within nations have only an honorary title unless special provisions are made otherwise. Eastern Rite Patriarchs are subject to the Pope while serving as heads of the faithful belonging to his rite throughout the world.

Personal Prelatures

In addition to the territorial arrangement of the Church into particular or local Churches or dioceses, the 1983 Code of Canon Law provides the possibility of priests and deacons being constituted in special groups having jurisdiction to meet specific pastoral or missionary needs. Such groups are called Prelatures. A Prelature is presided over by a Personal Prelate who is an Ordinary with the right to establish seminaries and ordain priests as members of the Prelature. Examples can be found in the various dioceses throughout the world established for serving the Military.

Canon law also allows for laity to be associated in the works of Prelatures without being withdrawn from the jurisdiction of their own proper Ordinary, the Diocesan Bishop.

Presbyteral Council

This is the principal consultative body mandated by the Code of Canon Law to advise the diocesan bishop in matters of pastoral governance. It consists of bishops and priests serving the diocese.

Promoter of Justice

A cleric or a lay person holding a graduate degree in canon law who is appointed by the diocesan bishop to serve in the role of a "prosecuting attorney" involved in all penal cases and in contentious cases in which the public welfare is involved.

See

The word is taken from the Latin "sedes" ("seat") and is used to denote a diocese or ecclesiastical district. The term Holy See is reserved to the Church of Rome whose Bishop is the Roman Pontiff. The term Titular See denotes a diocese that has been suppressed as a functioning particular or local church. However, the titles or names of such dioceses are retained and given as an honorary title to any bishop not serving as chief pastor of a diocese. Papal representatives, bishops of the Roman Curia, and auxiliary bishops throughout the world are said to be "Titular Bishops" of these suppressed Sees.

Seminary

The term originates from the time of St. Augustine when those preparing for the priesthood were educated in the "cathedral school." During the Middle Ages, the clergy were educated in a university setting where faculties of philosophy, theology, and canon law existed. Eventually individual dioceses or provinces came to establish their own schools for educating their clerical students. Traditional seminaries date from the Council of Trent in the sixteenth century.

A school for the spiritual, academic, and pastoral education and formation of priesthood candidates is known as a major seminary in which the focus is on philosophical and theological education. To prepare for entrance into a major seminary, a period of study is set aside for the required courses in the humanities and the sciences in institutions called minor seminaries.

Tribunal

A tribunal (court) is the name given to the person or persons who exercise the judicial powers given by Christ to the Church. By its very nature, this procedure involves the determination of a legal controversy. In ecclesiastical matters, definite procedural norms for conducting a trial are found in the Code of Canon Law to settle disputes brought before ecclesiastical judges who are competent, that is, who have the authority to resolve the issues at hand. There are various grades of tribunals, including the tribunals of the Holy See itself, regional and metropolitan tribunals, and finally, diocesan tribunals. A major concern of tribunals is conducting the process leading to the dissolution or annulment of marriages.

Vicar Forane/Dean

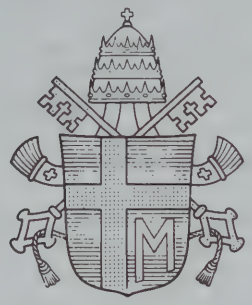
The Code of Canon Law allows parishes in a certain vicinity to be grouped together in a wider territorial relationship to promote better pastoral care. These groupings are sometimes called "deaneries" or "vicariates forane". They are headed by a priest called a "Dean" or "Vicar Forane." Their task is to promote and coordinate the common pastoral activity within the vicariate or deanery.

Vicar General

Bishops and priests appointed to participate in the executive (administrative) governance of the diocese with ordinary executive power as deputy of the diocesan bishop. The appointment of a vicar general is mandatory for every diocese. This office is designed to facilitate and unify diocesan administration.

The publishers of the Official Catholic Directory wish to thank the Vice Chancellors of the Archdiocese of Chicago for their work in the preparation of this glossary.

The Supreme Roman Pontiffs



St. Peter of Bethsaida in Galilee, Prince of the Apostles, who received from Jesus Christ the Supreme Pontifical Power to be transmitted to his Successors, resided first at Antioch, then at Rome for twenty-five years where he was martyred in the year 64, or 67 of the common reckoning.

PART I

Hierarchy of the Catholic Church

The Hierarchy, as the supreme governing body of the Catholic Church, consists of the Roman Pontiff, the successor of Peter, and the Bishops joined together with him in one apostolic college to provide for the common good of the Church. The Cardinals, now always bishops, serve as the chief counsellors of the Roman Pontiff. The Pope is further assisted by the departments of the Roman Curia. The bishops, of whom some bear the titles of Patriarch and Archbishop, are united with the Roman Pontiff in the governance of the whole Church; the bishops, when assigned to particular Sees, are individually responsible for the teaching, sanctification and governance of their particular Church. Apostolic Vicars and Prefects together with certain Abbots and other Prelates are also joined in this work.

HIS HOLINESS THE POPE

BISHOP OF ROME AND VICAR OF JESUS CHRIST,
SUCCESSOR OF ST. PETER, PRINCE OF THE APOSTLES,
SUPREME PONTIFF OF THE UNIVERSAL CHURCH.
PATRIARCH OF THE WEST, PRIMATE OF ITALY.
ARCHBISHOP AND METROPOLITAN OF THE ROMAN PROVINCE,
SOVEREIGN OF VATICAN CITY.

JOHN PAUL II

KAROL WOJTYLA

The direct successor of St. Peter was born in Wadowice, Diocese of Krakow, May 18, 1920; ordained Priest, November 1, 1946; appointed Titular Bishop of Ombi July 4, 1958; Promoted to Archbishop of Krakow, January 13, 1964; Proclaimed and created Cardinal June 26, 1967. Elected Pope, October 16, 1978; installed October 22, 1978.

VATICAN CITY

By virtue of the Lateran Pact signed on February 11, 1929, and ratified on June 7, 1929, the complete and independent authority of the Pope to rule in his own possessions was recognized by the state. The territorial possessions of the Holy Father are called Vatican City and within its limits the Sovereign Pontiff's authority is recognized as supreme.

The Sovereign of this small state is His Holiness, the pope.

The government presently is administered by a Pontifical Commission of which His Eminence Agostino Cardinal Casaroli is President.

THE COLLEGE OF CARDINALS

The Cardinals, when duly constituted and proclaimed, form the Supreme Council or Senate of the Church. They are advisers of the Supreme Pontiff, and at the death of the Pontiff those under eighty years of age elect his successor.

There are three orders of Cardinals, Cardinal-Bishops, Cardinal-Priests, and Cardinal-Deacons; but these orders are distinct from those of the Hierarchy. The present Cardinal Priests and Deacons are Archbishops or Bishops. The Sacred College of Cardinals, when complete formerly consisted of 70 members—6 Cardinal Bishops, 50 Cardinal Priests and 14 Cardinal Deacons (Cf. Canon 231Sec.1), but the late Pontiffs, Pope John XXIII and Pope Paul VI named a number in excess of this total. Only 120 Cardinals, all under 80 years of age, can participate in a conclave to elect a new pontiff.

The Cardinal Bishops (except the Patriarch-Cardinals of the Oriental Rites), have as Titular Sees the Suburban Sees of Rome, which are: Porto and Santa Rufina, Albano, Palestrina, Sabina, Frascati, Velletri. The Cardinal Dean has united to his See the See of Ostia. The Cardinal Priests take their title from the "Titular Churches" to which they are appointed: the Cardinal Deacons are appointed to other Churches called "Deaconries." The first Cardinal Bishop is Dean; the first Cardinal Priest is First Priest; and the first Cardinal Deacon is First Deacon of the Sacred College. The Dean has the right of consecrating the new Pope if he is not already a bishop; the First Deacon the right of proclaiming him and investing him with the sacred Pallium. On the death of the Pontiff, the Cardinal Camerlengo has the Administration of the affairs of the Holy See.

The "creation" of a Cardinal sometimes precedes, even by several years, the "publication and proclamation." The Cardinal is then said to be "reserved in pectore," and when proclaimed, he takes the precedence according to date of creation.

This Sacred Congregation reproves doctrines opposed to the principles of the faith after the interested Bishops of a region have been heard. It studies the books referred to it and, if necessary, reproves them after the author has been heard and has had an opportunity to defend himself and after the Ordinary has been forewarned. It also examines all that concerns "the privilege of the faith" both in law and in fact. It is competent to pass judgment on errors about the faith according to the norms of an ordinary process. It safeguards the dignity of the sacrament of Penance. The Congregation proceeds administratively or judicially according to the nature of the question to be treated.

CATHOLIC DIOCESAN AND PROVINCE BOUNDARIES
IN THE UNITED STATES

Regions of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops

The Official Catholic Directory
P.J. Kenedy & Sons 1990

PART II
The Catholic Church in the United States

The organizational structure of the Catholic Church in the United States consists of 33 Provinces with as many Archdioceses (Metropolitan Sees); 148 Suffragan Sees (Dioceses); The Military Archdiocese; four Eastern-Rite jurisdictions immediately subject to the Holy See in Rome. The Eparchies of St. Maron (Maronites), Newton (Melkites), St. Thomas the Apostle of Detroit (Chaldeans) and St. George Martyr of Canton, Ohio (Romanians). Each of these jurisdictions is under the direction of an Archbishop and Bishop called an Ordinary, who has apostolic responsibility and authority for the pastoral service of the people in his care.

The structure includes the territorial episcopal conference known as the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. In and through this body, which is strictly ecclesiastical and has defined juridical authority, the Bishops exercise their collegiate pastorate over the Church in the entire country.

Related to the NCCB is the United States Catholic Conference, a civil corporation and operational secretariat through which the Bishops, in cooperation with other members of the Church, act on a wider-than-ecclesiastical scale for the good of the Church and society in the United States.

The following is a list of the thirteen regions in the United States and provinces within those regions.

National Conference of Catholic Bishops

Address—3211 Fourth St., Washington, DC 20017-1194. ℓ 202-541-3000

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops (NCCB) is a canonical entity operating in accordance with the Conciliar Decree Christus Dominus. Its purpose is to foster the Church's mission to mankind by providing the Bishops of this country with an opportunity to exchange views and insights of prudence and experience and to exercise in a joint manner their pastoral office. The NCCB is the successor to the Annual Meeting of the Bishops of the United States, approved in the brief "Communes" issued by Pope Benedict XV, April 10, 1919 and in a special letter of Pius XI issued on August 10, 1927. The present NCCB statutes with some slight amendment are those originally approved by the Sacred Consistorial Congregation in a decree issued on June 22, 1922.

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops is composed of every Bishop, residential or titutlar, who serves the Church in the United States, its territories or possessions. Each Bishop has an active and passive voice in the Conference. Under certain conditions, enunciated in conciliar legislation, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops can initiate actions that are juridically binding on all the bishops of the country.

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops is presided over by a president who is elected by the general membership. Other officers of the organization are a vice president, secretary, treasurer and general secretary. The organization functions through forty-four different bishops' committees. The National Conference of Catholic Bishops is a distinct entity from the United States Catholic Conference. Its relationship to the USCC is that of a sponsoring organization.

In addition to its highly acclaimed disaster relief work, CRS carries on development and nutrition programs throughout the Third World. These include health projects, school-feeding programs, agriculture development, water resource management and community promotion and are designed to help people help themselves and to raise the standards of living not only of the individual but of families and entire communities.CRS operations are funded, in part, from the proceeds of an annual collection - American Catholic Overseas Aid Appeal (also known as the Bishop's Relief Fund) - held during the Lenten season in more than 18,000 Catholic churches in the U.S. Support is also received from the Operation Rice Bowl Lenten prayer program and from individuals, church and school groups, foundations and corporations. Assistance from the federal government takes several forms: food available under Title II of Public Law 480; defrayment of ocean freight costs on U.S. government-donated foods and relief supplies generated by CRS itself; grants for some emergency operations and grants for community development projects.
